Map Shows Proposals

This drawing prepared by consulting engineers shows the proposed improvements called for in the airport bond issue, scheduled to be presented to the voters on Sept. 24. A $790,000 bond issue would cover the local share of first-phase improvements.

Airport Bond Issue Explained As Stride Toward Big Future

Dr. H. O. Wilbur, chairman of the Sedalia Municipal Airport Board, explained the proposed stages of development for improving the present airport and the cost to the public, at a news conference Wednesday night.

The expansion of the existing airport facility would be completed in three stages over a 20-year period, according to Wilbur. The funds for the first stage of the development would be provided from a $790,000 bond issue which, hopefully, will be presented to voters on Sept. 24. In addition, the federal government will provide approximately $700,000, totaling $1,490,000 for the cost of the first stage of development at the airport.

The first stage of the program would include: acquiring 300 additional acres of land; acquiring easements; extending the existing right-of-way; construction of a new 100 by 5,600 foot, north-south runway; partial construction of a new terminal building, aprons and connecting taxi-ways; and the closing of Boonville Road.

The closing of Boonville Road would create a hardship for some of the residents north of Highway 50 and east of the airport, however, Dr. Wilbur pointed out that these persons could back-track and come into Sedalia via the road next to the Brown Oil Co. service station which intersects with Highway 50, with very little inconvenience. Also, in years to come, Highway 50 will bypass Sedalia to the north and these residents will be able to travel to the city much faster.

The proposed airport program will enable the airport to handle small jets and light cargo planes which cannot land here at present.

The second stage of the proposed development would include: completion of a north-south runway and a parallel taxi-way; completion of the terminal apron; expansion of hangar facilities and parking areas, and the closing of Griessen Road.

Dr. Wilbur pointed out that Griessen Road would not be closed under this program unless a runway of over 6,000 feet is needed in the future.

The third stage of the program would encompass construction on a northeast-southwest cross runway and a parallel taxi-way; an expanded hangar and parking area and the phasing out of the original terminal area.

The city council must pass an ordinance permitting the bond issue before Sept. 3, according to federal regulations, so that advertisement of the proposed bond issue can be advertised for 21 days prior to the proposed date of the election, Sept. 24.

Nixon Calls for Greater Non-Military Peace Bid

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Richard M. Nixon called today for a dramatic step-up in non-military efforts to end the Vietnam war "rather than further escalation on the military front."

In a special Vietnam statement submitted in his behalf to Republican platform writers, the frontrunner for the GOP presidential nomination also urged his party to give "our full support" to the administration's efforts for peace through U.S.-North Vietnamese talks at Paris.

And he joined Michigan's Gov. George Romney, who has dropped out of the White House race, in telling the party plank-drafters that they must face up to the Vietnam issue.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, chairman of the platform committee which opened hearings Monday, announced the group would buckle down in closed session this afternoon to what he termed the serious business of drafting the party's 1968 policy document. The group hopes to finish the job Saturday well in advance of next week's nominating convention.

Advance indications were that the Republican platform will call for a smaller U.S. role in the war, but will say American forces should not be pulled out without a satisfactory settlement. It will also bear down hard on crime, call for new approaches to poverty problems and deplore deficit budgets and inflation.

Romney told the platform writers at their final open hearing that "if we only vaguely generalize, pussyfoot or mince words on the Vietnam war issue, the American people will not turn to us for leadership, nor will we deserve it."

The Michigan governor said an enlargement of South Vietnam's role in carrying out the war effort should be accompanied by "a positive program for peace."

And the United States is now

Hint at Possible Failure in Talks

PARIS (AP) — North Vietnamese diplomats participating in the Paris peace talks are dropping hints that the talks may fail unless President Johnson ends the bombing of North Vietnam.

U.S. officials regard the veiled threats as a part of the drive North Vietnam has made since the talks began to build up massive public opinion against the U.S. position that North Vietnam must give something in return.

The drive was intensified Wednesday after the North Vietnamese apparently decided that statements by Secretary of State Dean Rusk made speculation about an early change in U.S. bombing policy untenable. Rusk said on Tuesday that the U.S. government would have to be told what North Vietnam would do before it could end the bombing.

A North Vietnamese spokesman also introduced a new element into the conflict by implying there might be some split over bombing policy between making the mistake of "proceeding unilaterally in seeking peace just as we acted unilaterally in taking initial military action," he told a packed hearing room.

Nixon proposed "a new strategy which recognizes that this is a new and different kind of war."

Rusk and Ambassador W. Averell Harriman, the chief U.S. negotiator at the Paris talks. The spokesman said Harriman did not speak in Rusk's defense at the meeting Wednesday.

U.S. officials said lengthy statements Harriman made on the reasons for U.S. bombing of North Vietnam constituted a reply to the attack on Rusk by Ha Van Lau of North Vietnam.

Lau said Rusk's statement provided evidence that "U.S. aggressive ruling circles... are continuing their policy of war and aggression, continuing to ask for 'reciprocity' (for ending the bombing) and for a ransom to be paid to the aggressor."

It was in this contention that he hinted the talks might fail, saying, "The American side has to bear full responsibility for what may arise from this attitude."

Similarly, North Vietnamese diplomats in private conversation are saying that "even Vietnamese patience can be exhausted."

Lease for Shoe Plant Is Signed

Mayor Ralph Walker and City Clerk Ralph Dedrick today signed a lease agreement with a Town & Country Shoe Inc., attorney for property involved in the T & C expansion program, it was reported today.

Signing the lease for T & C was R. H. McRoberts, Jr., a St. Louis attorney. The information was made available by Norman Lewis of Perry, Adams & Lewis, Inc., a Kansas City firm handling the bonds.

The lease was signed in the bonding firm's office, Lewis said.

He added that the average interest on the $1,050,000 bond issue is 4 3/4 per cent, Lewis said. The agreement signed is a 20-year lease-purchase agreement, involving less than 14 acres of land in the western part of Sedalia.

Lewis reported he was in Sedalia July 29 when Walker signed the bonds, after which they were taken to the state auditor's office in Jefferson City for registration.

According to Lewis, letting of contracts for actual construction would probably be next in the chain of events which will ultimately result in a new manufacturing plant for the Sedalia shoe firm.

Mayor Walker was out of town and not available for comment.

A Parade of Steel Price Hikes Likely

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Steel Co. announced a general price increase today as smaller producers appeared to be ready to join the price hike parade started Wednesday by the nation's three biggest steel firms.

Pittsburgh Steel, ranked 14th in production, said it was increasing prices from $3 to $10 a ton Aug. 8 on all its products except two types of pipe.

Other producers hinted strongly that they would follow the lead of the big three—U.S. Steel, Bethlehem and Republic, which raises prices Wednesday only a day after United Steelworkers union won its richest contract ever.

Despite sharp criticism from President Johnson, the steel firms indicated the price hikes will stand.

Johnson called Bethlehem's nearly 5 per cent across-the-board hike "unreasonable" and said at a Washington news conference that it "just should not be permitted to stand."

Edmund F. Martin, Bethlehem's chairman and chief executive officer, replied: "Our announcement... speaks for itself. In our opinion, our price increase is absolutely necessary and we do not intend to withdraw it."

It was the first confrontation between the federal government and the steel industry since 1962 when President John F. Kennedy forced the rollback of a general price hike.

Johnson, asked if he planned "any instruments" to compel a rollback, said, "We urge them and reason with them and counsel with them and plead with them not to" increase prices.

Republic Steel followed Bethlehem and said it would hike its principal steel mill products 4.5 per cent and said the new labor contract was the reason. The Bethlehem and Republic increases are effective Aug. 8.

U.S. Steel, acting in a manner that has become common in the industry in the past six years, announced a selective price increase for its tin mill products, material used in making cans.

The U.S. Steel increases, effective Oct. 1, were on products which accounted for 7 per cent of last year's industrywide shipments. U.S. Steel would not say how much the increases were.

Johnson expressed hope "other steel companies will not join this parade," saying such action would lead to a price increase of $500 million for American consumers.

Red Buildup and Steel Price Hike Worry LBJ

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson says the nation can expect a massive attack by the enemy in Vietnam and possible "dire economic consequences" at home over a steel price boost.

The President says he is discouraged over the infiltration and troop buildup by North Vietnam in the South and lack of response, so far, to the U.S. bombing restraint.

But, he expressed hope the enemy will match the restraint and that the attack, which he said appears imminent against major South Vietnamese cities "could be aborted."

He cautioned Hanoi that the U.S. might have to act promptly with additional military measures if they "put our men in danger."

Calling an impromptu news conference in the Cabinet Room of the White House late Wednesday afternoon, the President issued a blast at Bethlehem Steel Corp. for its announced 5 per cent across-the-board price increase effective Aug. 8, the first such blanket price hike in the industry since President John F. Kennedy's confrontation with the steel titans in 1962.

Pointing to the possible inflationary consequences from pricing decision he said could affect the entire economy, Johnson declared:

"Inflation for steel is inflation for the nation."

Johnson said he hoped other steel companies "will not join this parade" and that competitive factors would then "bring about a readjustment on the action the Bethlehem company has taken."

The price boost came before representatives of industry and the United Steelworkers Union could sign a new labor contract expected to raise wages and fringe benefits by at least six per cent a year over the next three years.

Johnson called the settlement high. Pointing to a 41 per cent first half increase in profits for the No. 2 steelmaker, Johnson said "the public interest must be recognized by the entire industry in its price decisions at this critical time."

Extensive Housing Legislation Signed

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson signed today the most far-reaching housing act in the nation's history. The measure is the start of the President's goal to wipe out substandard U.S. housing in 10 years.

At the signing ceremonies in front of the curving new headquarters of the Department of Housing and Urban Development, Johnson said the new law "can be a Magna Carta to liberate our cities."

The President said the three-year, $5.4 billion program marks the start of the final stage of a federal commitment to housing that began in the administration of President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

While Congress has authorized the first stages for the President's program, future Congresses must vote the actual money to make it a reality.

If Congress should still be faced with war and inflation six months from now, appropriations to carry the measure through its second and third years may well be cut back to disable Johnson's 10-year goal of 6 million new and rehabilitated homes.

Art Council's Next Season Is Discussed

The successful Summer Art Fair held recently in Sedalia was discussed at a meeting Tuesday night of the Sedalia Council on the Arts.

More than 230 works were exhibited at the Art Fair, which was held on the Wesley Methodist Church parking lot. A total of 34 ribbons were awarded to artists in several classes.

An Arts Council reception was tentatively set for Sept. 15, at which time memberships will be solicited and new officers elected.

The 1968-69 season, which will include a jazz ensemble, modern dance group and a return engagement by the Missouri Vanguard Theater, was also discussed.

The key new feature of the bill would help poor families buy homes and its $300 million outlay over the next three years would be the most generous government subsidy ever enacted for such a purpose.

The program's cost, however, is expected to increase greatly from the initial $75 million authorization.

The measure also includes new money authorizations for many existing programs seeking to deal with problems of city slums and the impoverished.

Among these are rent subsidies, low-rent public housing urban renewal, and model cities and a package of aid to help set up whole new towns.

Largest Pipeline

Riding piggy back on top of the first of five 1,000-foot sections of pipe, pontoons lighten the burden by pulling the pipe across the Ohio River. When finished this fall, it will be the largest crude oil pipeline in the U.S., running from St. James, La., to Patoka, Ill. The 630-mile long capline will deliver 400,000 barrels daily at first, with a maximum of more than one million barrels daily.

(UPI)

Missed His Chance

Astronaut Mike Collins was released this week from Wilford Hall USAF Hospital at Lackland Air Force Base in Texas where he underwent spinal surgery last week. The long recovery period will cost Collins his assignment to fly aboard the third manned Apollo spaceship early next year. "I'll wear this neck brace out there if they'll let me," Collins told newsmen as he left the hospital. (UPI)

Polls Assuming New Importance

NEW YORK (AP) — Take it from Dr. Gallup, if the presidential election were held at the end of July, Richard M. Nixon would defeat either Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy or Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

Or if you'd rather take it from Lou Harris, either McCarthy or Humphrey would defeat Nixon.

As for Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, the Gallup Poll has him in a tie with Humphrey and a virtual tie with McCarthy. Harris has Rockefeller beating both Humphrey and McCarthy.

In Miami Beach, Nixon supporters claim they have the Republican nomination assured on the basis of the Gallup Poll. Rockefeller sees himself leading the Democratic presidential hopefuls outside the South and an aide smells a nominating victory.

Now listen to Richard Nixon on a winter Sunday, Feb. 25, in Whitefield, N.H.:

"The polls are not going to determine the Republican presidential nominee."

But the polls have assumed a major role in this turbulent political year, with Rockefeller, for instance, commissioning a major private survey. The preliminary results, he says, show him carrying at least eight of nine states said to be vital to a Republican victory.

Then the Nixon forces seize on the same poll figures from Rockefeller to argue that, because they show Nixon would carry four of the states—New York, California, New Jersey and Ohio—this indicates a national trend to Nixon over McCarthy or Humphrey.

The polls have a built-in margin of error of 3 percentage points. With a sample of 1,500 persons, a poll can be within 3 per cent of accuracy at least 95 per cent of the time.

But the margins of difference on, for example, Nixon and McCarthy in these recent polls translates into enough votes to swing an election.

Gallup has Nixon with 41, McCarthy 36, five points apart. In 1964, about 70.6 million persons voted. Five per cent of that is about 3.5 million votes.

Harris has McCarthy 43, Nixon 35, eight points or 5.6 million votes.

George Gallup, however, says his average deviation from accuracy since 1948 has been 1.7 percentage points. In 1960, Gallup was off less than 1 point. Harris, who started in 1963, called the 1964 election within 2 points.

The two major polls were in disagreement back in early April, when Gallup had Nixon with 43 per cent to Humphrey's 34 and 41 per cent to McCarthy's 38. Harris had McCarthy with 39 per cent to Nixon's 33 and Humphrey edging Nixon 35-34.

In early May, Gallup found Nixon with 39 per cent to McCarthy's 37, while Harris had McCarthy with 40 and Nixon with 37. By late May, both had Nixon trailing Humphrey and McCarthy in the trial heats.

The polling organizations have long maintained that they are only reporting what people think or feel at the time they are interviewed. Events affect the answers, so many findings may not be directly comparable, they say. But some delegates to the political nominating conventions, faced with conflicting findings, may prefer the crystal ball to the computer.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Famed ballet dancer Rudolf Nureyev is appealing Internal Revenue Service claims against him for $30,642 in back taxes—and is asking a social security deduction refund of $213.

The IRS claim, according to U.S. Tax Court records available Wednesday, is based largely on what is called "unexplained deposits" of $37,817 by Nureyev with a U.S. trust company.

Attorneys for the dancer, who defected from Russia in 1961, contend the trust company is used as a "receptacle for his worldwide income."

They also said his social security deductions were too high in 1963 and claimed the refund. The tax court records also revealed IRS claims against singer Eddie Fisher for $42,153 and television personality David Susskind for $1,523.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, saying criminals "are made not born," has signed a $150 million authorization for a program of juvenile crime prevention and rehabilitation.

The President said criminals are the products of slums, bad schools, idleness and despair. Legislation will help, he said, but until "we get around to curing these causes of crime, we cannot stop crime or juvenile delinquency."

Pipeline Project Approved

WASHINGTON (AP)—A $25,462,000 pipeline project by the Mississippi River Transmission Corp., St. Louis, was approved Wednesday by the Federal Power Commission.

Nearly 200 miles of line in Illinois, Missouri, Arkansas and Louisiana were authorized under a permanent certificate.

The commission said the project is designed to correct a situation which could lead to a serious natural gas shortage in the St. Louis area this winter. Two 5.5-mile lines in the St. Louis area, costing $1.5 million, were given permanent authority.

The commission said that under a temporary certificate costs may not be included in the company's rate base without further authority, a protection for consumers.

The project is opposed by coal industry representatives.

The FPC announcement said the project will increase Mississippi's natural gas transmission capacity by 100 million cubic feet a day to meet customer requirements in Arkansas, Illinois and Missouri.

The commission limited the amounts of additional gas that Mississippi may deliver to Laclede Gas Co., which distributes in the St. Louis area. This will prevent Laclede's industrial customers from receiving more gas than they are getting now. The FPC said this was to protect coal interveners pending final determination of the case.

Humphrey Changes His Views

WASHINGTON (AP)—Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey has delivered one of his strongest endorsements of the Johnson administration only a few hours after he seemingly was at odds with some of the President's Vietnam policies.

"I do not want to run for the presidency by turning my back upon those who have stood with me and repudiating the good works of my party, my president and his predecessors," Humphrey told a $500-a-plate fund-raising dinner Wednesday night.

This followed an earlier Wednesday speech when he said in connection with Vietnam that "I'm trying to make my views compatible with the government of the United States—and I'm having a little trouble with that."

In the first speech he spoke to the convention of the National Association of Counties. His talk bore little resemblance to the advance text, but he said he stood by it as a statement of his position.

In it, Humphrey said South Vietnam "should be run by the people who have lived there, not by Hanoi or Washington."

"This means free elections," he said, "elections in which all can vote and all can run for office, with guarantees against force and intimidation."

"Elections in which every group... can play its full part in the peaceful political process. It means being willing to accept the results of these elections, whatever they may be."

Asked whether he thought his view of free elections was compatible with the South Vietnamese government, Humphrey replied: "I haven't the slightest idea."

"I'm not sure," he went on, "my views are compatible with the governments of France, England or anywhere else."

Former Sedalian Takes Bride In Ceremony, Seville Spain

Miss Milagros Bellamy, daughter of T. Comandante and Mrs. Francisco Bellamy of Seville, Spain, became the bride of Lt. (jg) Larry D. Trueman USN in an evening ceremony March 30 at the Conception Church, Nervion in Seville, Spain. Lt. Trueman is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Trueman, 715 West Broadway.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was dressed in a floor length gown of white embroidered brocade. Her bolero length jacket, featuring long sleeves and a softly rolled collar, accented the modified empire waist of her dress. A Dior bow with floral motif secured her illusion veil and she carried a cascade arrangement of white gladioli, stephanotis and ivy.

Following a wedding reception at Seville, the couple left for a wedding trip to Barcelona, Granada, and Phonda. They are living in Cadiz, Spain while Trueman is stationed at Rota Naval Air Force Base.

The bride attended the University in Seville. Trueman, a graduate of Smith-Cotton High School received his Bachelor of Science degree from the University of Missouri, Columbia, where he was commissioned ensign. Named out-standing naval cadet from MU, he attended Naval Air Force training school in Pensacola Florida. He has been stationed at Rota Naval Air Force Base in Spain since February, 1967.

Lt. Trueman, enroute to his home in Spain following duty in the combat zone, is expected in Sedalia in August to visit his parents.

"Franklin Cent" The Fugio cent, an early American coin, is sometimes called the Franklin cent. Although the design and motto on the coin are often ascribed to Benjamin Franklin, there is no direct evidence to link him with it.

Airlines To Open Lounges

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two major airlines, Braniff and Continental, yielded to the Civil Aeronautics Board Wednesday and agreed to open the private lounges they have maintained at various airports to all persons willing to pay annual dues or to buy lifetime memberships.

As a result, the CAB dropped proceedings started against them, as well as against other airlines, in July 1966. Some air travelers complained they had been denied the use of the special lounges.

The amounts of the dues and the membership fees to be charged were not indicated in the CAB order.

Two other airlines previously had satisfied the CAB by similar actions.

Northwest Orient Airlines opened its airport clubs to passengers buying first class tickets, and National Airlines discontinued its requirements for club membership to permit public use of its airport lounges.

Still to be resolved are CAB proceedings against the Admirals' Clubs of American Airlines, the Ambassador Clubs of Trans World Airlines, the 100,000-mile clubs of United Air Lines, and the special passenger lounges of Pan American World Airways and Trans Caribbean Airlines.

World News In Briefs

ROME (AP)—Morning rush hour traffic rolled smoothly through central Rome today in sharp contrast to the chaotic jams usual in recent years. Police began enforcing a ban on most parking in an area of 16 square miles from 7 to 10 a.m. and from 3 to 5 p.m.

"I have given more tickets today than before," said one policeman, "and I think the plan may work."

Many Romans left their cars at home today and adopted a wait and see attitude, but merchants of Via Nazionale, where many of the better boutiques and shops are located, complained to Mayor Rinaldo Santini that the ban discriminates against them.

Twice before the city tried to ban daytime parking in downtown Rome. Each time pressure groups forced abandonment of the ban. This time it is scheduled to run until January as an experiment.

Journalists, doctors, civil authorities, military officials and guests of hotels in the area are exempt.

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP)—Iraqi President Ahmed Hassan el Bakr announced a new moderate leftist Cabinet today with himself as premier as well as commander of the armed forces.

The 26-man Cabinet succeeds the government of right-wing Premier Abdul Razzak el Naef, who lasted only 13 days. But 10 of Naef's Cabinet members were reappointed.

LONDON (AP)—Elizabeth Taylor was reported up and walking around today, 11 days after a partial hysterectomy.

"She is very well and quite contented," said a spokesman at the nursing home where Miss Taylor was operated on July 21. He added that the doctors have not decided when she will be released from the hospital.

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (AP)—A court of inquiry into the sinking of the ferry Wahine refused today to cancel or suspend the certificates of the master, the first mate or the chief engineer.

Fifty-one persons died when the 8,948-ton ship went down off Wellington April 10 in New Zealand's worst storm in memory.

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The location of a September conference on a proposed nationwide, two-day police walkout will be decided at a meeting of the national boards of the Fraternal Order of Police later this month.

The boards meet in St. Louis Aug. 18-20.

FOP President John Harrington of Philadelphia said Wednesday he is opposed to the walkout, which he said was suggested by policemen who feel they have not been given public support in dealing with civil disorders.

Poverty Program Loses Cash

WASHINGTON (AP) — An anti-poverty program to rehabilitate Chicago street gangs has been cut off from its last trickle of federal dollars in the wake of a Senate controversy involving sex and drugs.

The Office of Economic Opportunity ruled Wednesday against any extension for the skeleton staff remaining from the $927,000 project. The move signaled almost certain disapproval of a separate application for $1 million still pending to resume the program.

Senate hearings produced testimony last month that anti-poverty training centers had been used to store weapons and hold sex and narcotics parties. The Senate voted 80-0 to cite a gang leader for contempt after he refused to answer questions and walked out of the hearings.

The pilot program was designed to try to teach job skills to gang members of the Blackstone Rangers and the Devil's Disciples. It was halted in May, but three staff members had remained until Wednesday.

Anti-poverty officials pointed out the gang leaders kept the Woodlawn area of Chicago calm after the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

The Rev. Arthur Brazier, head of The Woodlawn Organization which sponsored the program and applied for the $1 million renewal grant, told the senators that staff members had found no signs of guns, liquor or narcotics in the centers. But he did concede difficulties in trying to teach the gang members.

Jefferson City leads the league with a 14-2 mark and has wrapped up its sixth title in eight years. This will be the first meeting between an All-Star team and Jefferson City.

Clifford Dickey, 1909 South Kentucky, reported to police at 8:35 p.m. Thursday the theft of a 12-gauge shotgun.

Dickey said the gun was taken from his car while it was parked at Vic's Liquor store on South Limit. The gun was inside a brown leather case, and was apparently taken sometime Wednesday night.

Mrs. Herb Mason, 1810 West Broadway, reported to police that vandals broke a concrete statuette at the above address sometime Tuesday night.

New Aircraft

The Model 188 short take-off and landing (STOL) aircraft arrived in St. Louis July 31 to be outfitted with special avionics and instrumentation at McDonnell Aircraft Co., in preparation for a demonstration program of STOL capabilities this summer. Powered by four turboprop engines, it can take off in less than 1,000 feet, land in less than 500 feet, and cruise at about 250 miles per hour. The Model 188, with a capacity for up to 64 passengers, is the forerunner of larger and more advanced STOL aircraft being designed for airline service in the 1970s.

Not Much Chance For 'Merger'

By RICHARD P. POWERS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chances of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy joining to run together on the Democratic national ticket are discounted by sources in both camps.

Although the two Minnesotans, the only contenders now in sight for the Democratic presidential nomination, are miles apart over the key Vietnam issue, some Democrats have suggested that McCarthy might become Humphrey's running mate.

"This is not outside the realm of possibility," one highly placed Humphrey source says, "but it would require a major change of attitude... You could not have the presidential and the vice presidential candidates at marked odds on Vietnam."

McCarthy is a strong critic of the Johnson administration's Vietnam policies, while Humphrey basically has adhered to the President's position.

A McCarthy aide, echoing the comments from the Humphrey people, said such a combination would require a 180-degree turn in the views of one or the other of the contenders. If McCarthy were to change his stand, the aide said, his "supporters would consider it a repudiation of all who rallied around him."

Besides, McCarthy isn't interested in being vice president, the aide said.

Even if the Minnesota senator wanted the No. 2 spot, Humphrey sources say McCarthy is not mentioned in conversations about the second spot among persons close to the vice president.

These sources say Humphrey has made no commitments about his running mate and "there have been no overtures to anyone. The prime consideration will be on who would be highly qualified for the place."

However, two people close to Humphrey listed four names as high among the vice presidential possibilities: Sen. Fred R. Harris, D-Okla., co-manager of Humphrey's campaign; Sargent Shriver, brother-in-law of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and now ambassador to France; Gov. Richard J. Hughes of New Jersey and Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine.

Australia, almost as large as the contiguous United States, holds only slightly more people than metropolitan New York City.

Long Again Claims 'Life' Smear Effort

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Sen. Edward V. Long, D-Mo., reiterated his claim Wednesday night that Life magazine was attempting to interfere in Missouri's Democratic primary with a smear campaign launched against him.

Long, in quest of the Democratic nomination for U.S. senator in Tuesday's election, centered on a July 22 Life story linking Long with Lawrence L. Callanan, head of the St. Louis pipefitters.

The magazine charged that Callanan, with the senator's help, was able to stall a multi-million dollar St. Louis housing project because the buildings were designed for electric heat.

Long said investigation revealed electric heating would cost the taxpayers more money than gas heating equipment, and added, "I don't have to take my hat off to Life magazine or the St. Louis Globe-Democrat (which he says joined Life in a smear campaign) for saving the taxpayers' money."

Urge Approval For Expansion Program

WASHINGTON (AP)—A recommendation that Ozark Air Lines, St. Louis, be granted a route extension to Dulles International Airport, serving Washington, and to LaGuardia Airport, New York City, was made Wednesday by the Civil Aeronautics Board's Bureau of Operating Rights.

The proposal would extend Ozark's system from Waterloo, Iowa eastward through Peoria, Springfield and Champagne-Urbana, Ill.

Examiner E. Robert Seaver will consider the recommendations in drafting his own report for the CAB.

The estimated net operating profit for Ozark would be more than $1 million in the first year and $1.6 million in the second year.

The bureau said the proposed service will ease traffic congestion at Chicago's O'Hare airport by permitting traffic to bypass it.

Americans Respond To Biafra Plight

By HENRIETTA LEITH
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Americans are responding with emotion—and cash—to the plight of children reported starving on the other side of the world.

This time the victims of war are the people of Biafra, a tiny African country which seceded from Nigeria and in the ensuing fight was cut off from food and medical supplies.

Church groups and the International Red Cross long have been aware of the tragedy of the Biafrans. Millions of dollars and thousands of tons of food and other supplies have been collected around the world, much of it through U.S. churches.

The supplies, including baby food, powdered milk and eggs to meet the Biafrans' desperate need for proteins, and medical supplies, have been airlifted into Biafra's 10,000-square-mile cul de sac, surrounded by hostile territory, in a cloak-and-dagger operation—a miniature Berlin airlift.

Many tons of supplies already are in African warehouses and much more is on the way. For example, Church World Service, relief arm of the Protestant National Council of Churches, has started trucking 500,000 pounds of high-protein beans from its Saginaw, Mich., depot to Baltimore for transport by ship to Biafra.

The Biafrans get only a few plane-loads of food and medicine a day because the relief planes must fly at night to avoid Nigerian government anti-aircraft fire, landing in the dark on makeshift landing strips.

Photographs showing tiny Biafrans with protruding ribs and distended bellies of malnutrition brought sudden and dramatic results.

Dr. Nwonye Otu, head of the New York office of the Republic of Biafra, gets numerous offers of aid for his countrymen.

Otu refers would-be contributors to the groups which have been helping Biafra all along—the World Council of Churches, Catholic Relief and the Red Cross—or to UNICEF, the United Nations children's fund which has started a Biafran relief program.

At Van Nuys, Calif., a public relations man, Robert Goldstein, is busy working on a $400,000 contract he obtained from the Biafran government last Dec. 1 to promote the cause of Biafra in the United States.

"At the time we wrote the contract, we didn't know the Biafrans would be starving," Goldstein says.

Part of the money was to be used to set up a "Peace for Biafra Committee," originally aimed at forwarding Biafra's political and military fight against the rest of Nigeria.

'Adult' Western Filmed

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Don "Red" Barry, a wrestler turned character actor, slumped in the hot midday sun behind a plaster of paris boulder on the Screen Gems backlot, rehearsing the scene in which he, a villain, gets his comeuppance. Shots were fired by a member of the technical crew.

Barry writhed and the director shouted, "Get ready with the blood."

On the sidelines in the shade, Don Murray, one of the two stars of the show, "The Outcasts," leaned back in his folding chair and talked about the new ABC series—his first regular television assignment.

"Well, yes, this one is based on personal relationships," he said, "since I play a former slave owner and Otis (Young) plays a former slave. But it's still a violent, action Western."

A couple of months ago, Murray said, "they started to cut down on the number of people killed, and cut out some of the details of blood and gore."

"But we still have lots of fights and I play the kind of guy who gets drunk and is interested in women. I've lost a lot of horses in the 11 episodes we've finished—they've been shot, broken a leg, died from thirst and, in one episode, got bitten by a rattlesnake."

All this, presumably, makes "The Outcasts" one of those so-called "adult Westerns," but with a contemporary television switch that has a white man and a black man in prickly partnership as bounty hunters.

Murray, a stage and film star with credits such as "A Hatful of Rain" and "The Hoodlum Priest"—which he wrote, produced and in which he starred—said he had never wanted to be involved with a television series before because he thought it would be detrimental to his film career.

"I've changed my mind," he said. "Now I think it will be helpful. If you do good work and if the audience likes you and identifies with you, it will make the audience want to see more of you."

Acting in a Western is a kick, he said—"like being a kid again and getting paid for it." He added that in a Western with more action than talk, there isn't much of the dreary business of learning lines.

"I'd hate being in one of those court room series and have to study pages and pages of speeches."

The teaming of black and white man in the Old West permits the series to inject new twists into time-honored plots.

In one episode, Young, whose character Jamal David has been made acting sheriff of a small town, walks into a restaurant full of empty tables and one lone diner. He asks for food and the proprietor explains that he just hasn't the room to serve him.

"I react," said Young, a TV newcomer. "I play a guy with a short fuse. As a matter of fact, I react to this series. I've waited 14 years in show business for this chance, and I don't want anything to hurt it."

NBC plans a special two-hour episode of "Ironside" on Sept. 26, pre-empting "Daniel Boone." It crowds into one program a story about surgery to see whether the sleuth can regain the use of his legs.

The show, a week after NBC premieres its new season, arrives during the debut week of both ABC and CBS, and will conflict with the season premieres of CBS' "Hawaii Five-O" and ABC's "Bewitched" and "That Girl."

Endures Almost Any Discomfort for Chair

By JOY STILLEY
NEW YORK (AP) — When our youngest goes off in pursuit of a higher education this fall, we won't be losing a daughter — we'll be gaining one-third of a chair.

Because our living room is crammed with such objects as wall-to-wall bookcases, electric organs and other assorted furniture not made for sitting purposes, there is space for only one easy chair in the entire room.

The couch, it is true, provides seating for three persons, but it is cold, hard and forbidding compared to the deep luxury of that overstuffed chair with broad armrests, which is the real seat of family inactivity.

Since this refuge of comfort also boasts the best reading light in the house, its popularity cannot be overstated. In our home the game of "musical chairs" is constantly in progress.

Should the sittee arise for one brief moment to dash to the kitchen for a snack, the speediest sprinter will find on returning to the chair, that it is already occupied by an alert opponent.

Thus, once a member of our family trio has established squatters' rights, he will endure the pangs of hunger or the boredom of an unwanted television program, rather than risk getting up and losing the seat of honor.

This is not the only cat-and-mouse game played by the three of us still occupying the old homestead. Aside from "Chair, Chair, who gets the chair?" another contest is regularly carried out on Sundays.

This one is known as "Who is going to get dressed first, thereby having to go out to buy the Sunday papers?"

In the earlier days of our parenthood, my husband and I had few problems along that line. As soon as the kids could cross the street alone, they were presented with a coin to clutch in a small hand, pointed in the direction of the corner stationery store and told to "fetch."

Later, when they got older, wiser and more mercenary, this maneuver required two coins — one for the papers and the other for the errand boy or girl.

The three of us have been known to stay in our pajamas and robes far into the afternoon, each hoping somebody else will break first. The two nonsports fans have the advantage over the male in our household during the football season — his anxiety to read about the games sometimes leads him to cash in his chips first.

So, although it is nice to look forward to sharing the special chair with only one rival soon, it is also somewhat disturbing to be facing the prospect of having only one alternate in the get-the-paper stakes.

An Important Amendment

Does political mud-slinging have much effectiveness on the outcome of an election? Probably it did many years ago, but today the rank and file of the electorate has developed a tendency not to be swayed by deadly barbs of political oratory, slanderous hand bills or other vicious last minute propaganda.

In a few contests preliminary to the primary election next Tuesday, candidates are trying the old-fashioned razzmatazz spiced with shocking accusations of infidelity to established rules of ethical behavior. This in the higher echelons. On the local level there is more campaign dignity among the candidates.

At the polls primary day, Democratic voters will receive a ballot containing the names of 39 candidates for public office, Republicans one with 26 candidates. Incidentally in Pettis county there are 59 candidates for committeemen and committeewomen, 63 Republicans.

Amid the campaign thunder which hasn't shaken up the public as much as the candidates themselves, one important phase of the primary has been neglected, from the standpoint of publicity, other than the official notice by Secretary of State James Kirkpatrick. This has to do with a proposed amendment to the Constitution of Missouri.

A Constitutional Ballot will be handed to each voter at the polls. This is submitted by the 74th General Assembly and pertains to the line of succession to the governor of Missouri in case of a vacancy or his disability. Presently the Constitution provides that the lieutenant governor shall succeed the governor in case of death, resignation, impeachment, physical or mental disability. Another defect is the lack of a provision for the governor to resume office if he recovers from a disability; and still another what procedure would follow if a lieutenant governor became incapacitated.

The proposed amendment provides the line of succession to the governor as follows: lieutenant governor, Senate president pro tem, House speaker, secretary of state, state auditor, state treasurer and attorney general; if the governor dies he will be replaced by the lieutenant governor or lieutenant governor-elect for the full four-year term. If the governor is incapacitated the lieutenant governor serves only until the governor certifies he is able to resume his duties.

Moreover, if any doubt arises over the governor's capacity to hold office a disability board composed of the lieutenant governor, secretary of state, state auditor, state treasurer, attorney general and the presiding officers and majority leaders of the Senate and House could declare the governor unable to resume his office. The Supreme Court would have the final decision over a disagreement between the governor and the board concerning his ability to serve if his capacity to do so remained in dispute.

No serious question has arisen about the efficacy of this amendment. It should be approved by the voters. This can be done only by marking an affirmative vote on the Constitutional Ballot instead of tossing it on the election booth floor as is so often done with ballots other than those pertaining to the election of candidates for public office.

Congress' Ethics Lax Despite Code

DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — The American public can thank Nick Kotz and the Des Moines Register for another illustration of unethical conduct by Congress in publishing a detailed report on the manner in which the trucking lobby subsidized certain key congressmen. In return, highly favorable trucking legislation has just been passed or recommended by Congress.

Earlier this year, Jack Anderson — now in Miami getting ready for the GOP Convention — and I wrote a book, "The Case Against Congress," which probed into some of the unethical conduct of congressmen. When the book's galley proofs were circulated in advance to members of the Senate Ethics Committee the effect was stimulating.

Suddenly, after weeks of procrastination, the Ethics Committee threw off its lethargy and recommended a code of ethical standards. This was promptly passed. The House of Representatives also acted.

Despite this, ethics in both houses of Congress continue about the same, as illustrated by the scandalous manner in which Congress has recently bowed to the trucking lobby, the highway lobby, the meat lobby and the gas pipeline lobby.

Nick Kotz and the Des Moines Register have exposed the trucking lobby in regard to a bill limiting the amount of commercial freight hauled by farm cooperatives, now signed into law; also in regard to a bill doubling the size of triple trailer trucks on interstate highways from 73,280 pounds to 138,000 pounds. They have revealed that a total of $40,000 was contributed to the campaign kettles of key congressmen to oil the legislative wheels for these two bills.

— The Highway Lobby —

Equally important, possibly more so, is the Federal Highway Bill which has been in a two-week battle between the House and Senate committees, with Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., refusing to sign the report because it was stacked in favor of the trucking, cement and freeway lobbies.

As written in the House, the bill limited Lady Bird's beautification program, undermined the protection of parks, historical sites, game refuges, etc., and cracked down completely on the right of the courts and local planning commissions to hold up freeways which they didn't want.

The House bill also voted 3,000 extra miles of interstate highways at a cost of several billion (with the federal government paying 92 per cent) at a time when the House has demanded a cutback of $6 billion, chiefly from education, antipoverty, housing and other economic and social welfare programs.

Significantly, the House of Representatives bowed to the highway lobby much more than did the Senate. And it was in the House that the truckers dumped most of their money.

Rep. George Fallon of Baltimore, Democratic Chairman of the Public Works Committee which handled the highway bill, got $1,000 from the truck operators nonpartisanship committee. Rep. Sam Friedel, another Baltimore Democrat and a key member of the Interstate Commerce Committee, got $1,000 in 1966, $750 in April 1968 and $250 in May 1968. Rep. John Kluczynski, Chicago Democrat and chairman of the Subcommittee which voted out the highway bill, got $30,000 from the same truckers' committee.

The following members of the important Public Works Committee got $1,000 each from the Truckers Committee: John Blatnik, D-Minn., and William Harsha, R-Ohio. The following got $500 each: Robert E. Jones, Ala.; James Wright, Texas; Kenneth Gray, Ill.; Frank Clark, Pa.; Harold Johnson, Calif.; W.J.B. Dorn, S.C.; Arnold Olsen, Mont.; Ray Roberts, Texas; James Kee, W.Va.; all Democrats; with Republicans James Grover, N.Y.; Roger Zion, Ind.; Charlotte Reid, Ill.

These are the contributions to members of the House Public Works Committee only and do not include money given to key members of other committees or to Senators. Significantly, Rep. Richard McCarthy, the Buffalo Democrat who put up the chief battle inside the Public Works Committee against the trucking lobby, was given a wide berth by the truckers. They considered him hopeless.

— Other Lobbying Gimmicks —

There were other interesting gimmicks which influenced the highway bills besides money. However, which Nick Kotz did not mention.

Rep. William Harsha, the Ohio Republican, not only got $1,000 from the truckers, as revealed by Kotz, but his law firm represents Greyhound bus, as revealed in the book "The Case Against Congress." Greyhound, of course, is one of the biggest highway users in the USA.

Last month, when this column reported on his favors for the highway lobby, Rep. Kluczynski issued a pious statement that he had never heard of Harold Wirth of Firestone Rubber, the leading lobbyist for highways; that he did not associate with lobbyists and never accepted contributions from them.

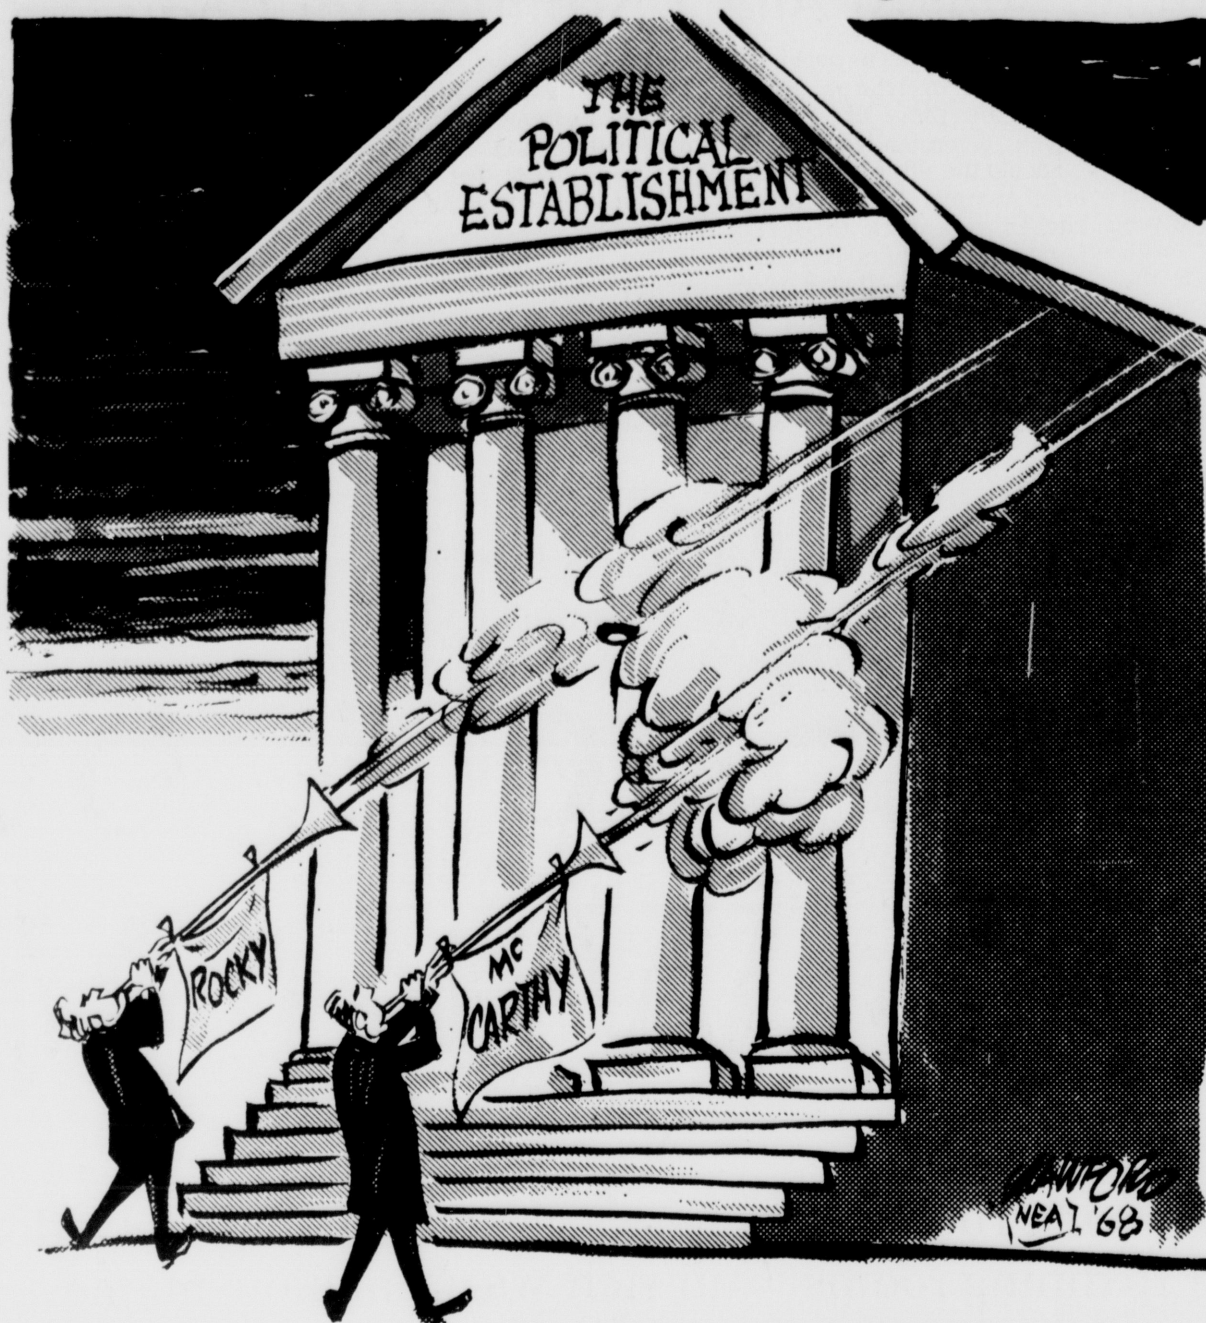

Now it develops that Kluczynski accepted $3,000 from the truckers; also addressed the American Road Builders Convention Feb. 23, 1965, in Washington, and March 12, 1967, in Miami, for which he was paid expenses and a fee. Finally Harold Wirth, whom "he never heard of," was a witness before Kluczynski's committee on April 4, 1968.

Kluczynski has been one of the most consistent opponents of Lady Bird's beautification program, a champion of billboards, and an indefatigable exponent of concrete thruways regardless of where local planning commissions want them located.

Actually, the freeway bill just passed is an unnecessary piece of legislation. It was rushed through now because the lobbyists wanted to cash in on their lobbying investments and weren't sure whether they will have the same docile committee after November. The bill weakens both the present highway law and the Department of Transportation. President Johnson is being urged to take a stand against the lobbyists and for congressional ethics by vetoing the bill.

Raleigh, N. C., has a monument to three U. S. presidents — Andrew Johnson, James Polk and Andrew Jackson.

Repeaters Swell Crime

WASHINGTON—(NEA)

The other day in Baltimore a grand jury charged 11 men with a part in one or more of six bank robberies between Feb. 22 and July 10, 1968.

Five of the 11 were out on bail on previous bank robbery or murder charges.

Police officers from cities of a million or more population have told this reporter that in their areas less than a thousand repeaters account for most serious crime.

A police lieutenant from one of these cities says, "If a few hundred selected men in my city were behind bars permanently, crime would drop dramatically."

The record seems to suggest persistent repeaters should not be eligible for parole until rehabilitation techniques are more certain, that bond requirements should be stiffer for hardened repeaters and that criminal cases should be brought to trial more quickly so that the guilty won't have as much time to commit more crimes while waiting.

Consider five examples:

● In June, 1967, a 24-year-old parolee was killed while running from a Washington, D.C., armed robbery.

The slain man was on parole for auto theft. He was also free on bond from a November, 1966, robbery charge. In addition, he was still on probation for housebreaking. On the day before his death, he had been set free on a $2,500 bond on a charge of shooting a high school student who tried to eject him and others from a school when they barged in and shouted obscenities at girl students.

● In California, in August, 1966, a 67-year-old widow was beaten and murdered by a convicted rapist free on bond awaiting trial on another rape charge.

This man had a history of vicious assaults and sex crimes starting in 1960 with a rape of a 16-year-old mentally retarded girl. He had been briefly confined in a mental institution after a psychiatrist had concluded he was a sexual psychopath. His history is one of light sentences, parole and probation.

● In August, 1966, a man was arrested in Washington, D.C., for the knife-point rape and robbery of a 42-year-old woman.

At the time of this attack he was being sought for an assault committed on a young mother a month before and as a suspect in other recent rape cases.

He had recently been released after serving part of an eight-year sentence for a 1963 vicious assault on the wife of a former U.S. congressman. Already in 1963, at age 17, he had an awesome four-year history of arrest for crimes of violence.

● In Tennessee, in 1967, a Kentucky prison parolee was tried for the rape and attempted murder of a young mother. After the attack, he had strangled his victim into unconsciousness and left her for dead.

He had been released after serving nine years of a life sentence for armed robbery. During his prison years, he had chalked up 140 prison rule violations. In the month-and-a-half he was out of prison, he had been fired from two jobs for making obscene remarks to female employees.

● In May, 1967, Washington, D.C., police arrested a 19-year-old on a charge of housebreaking. He was, at the time, free on six separate bonds, two on appeals from criminal convictions and four after charges or indictments, all for crimes over the previous 10 months.

BERRY'S WORLD

"What does our poll say my position should be on polls?"

BETTY CANARY

Cuddling and Cooing

Recently I saw two press releases, from different sources, advocating parents talking to babies. One, quoting a UCLA Medical Center professor, said that parents wanting well-adjusted children should play games, such as peekaboo, with their babies because such games help form the basis for the ability to relate to others, adapt to new situations and develop learning skills. Your reaction might be the same as mine—this is news?

But, have you seen a baby brought to a mother who refused to touch him? Seen the nurse carry him in, deposit him on the bed, return to collect him for the nursery? Seen him go home, held by his mother for the first time, pushed in a wheel chair by an unsmiling, silent father?

Parents playing peekaboo is not, perhaps, a natural tendency. And tickling a foot to see little toes curl must be an impulse some can resist.

I well remember one of my own children, at nine months of age, being released from an isolation ward after a bout with pneumonia. He sat passively, was disinterested in the activity around him, paid no attention to the favorite bunny we had brought for him to carry home. I was frightened by what seemed to be a complete change in his personality.

The pediatrician said, "It's terrible, isn't it? We call it 'the hospital stare.' All he needs is some mother love."

But, I protested, I had watched through the glass as the nurses fed him, talked to him, rocked him. He had been given not only good care but loving attention.

The doctor agreed. "But," he said, "mysteriously, it is not the same."

Today we tend to shy away from using that sentimental term, "mother love." What was it anyway, we ask, except a slow and sugary smothering of offspring, a strangling with apron strings by which woman secured her niche in society.

Fortunately, most mothers went on believing that cuddling counts for something. They strung bright toys over the bed of a five-day-old "nonseeing" infant, talked to him whether he looked at them or not, showed him no mercy with their cooing and chin-chucking.

It looks as though they were right in spite of themselves.

DOCTOR'S MAILBAG

Coating on Tongue Made of Dead Cells

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q — What would cause a white coating on the tongue?

A — The cause is a failure to eat enough tongue-scouring foods, such as toast, raw carrots and nuts, or eating them but not chewing them enough. The coating is made up of one or more layers of dead cells.

Q — I am taking one-third of a glass of diluted hydrochloric acid with vitamin B complex for a geographic tongue. Will this heal the tongue? Can one take too much of it? Can one become allergic to it?

A — Since geographic tongue is harmless and usually clears up spontaneously in two to seven days, no treatment is required. It may come back but who will know it except you, and then only when you examine your tongue in the mirror. I doubt that the remedy you are taking will influence its course. It is possible to take too much of the acid but not of vitamin B. These substances will not produce an allergy.

Q — What would cause my tongue to turn bright red at times?

A — Scarlet tongue may be caused by scarlet fever, some types of anemia, niacin deficiency or infection with Candida albicans. The cause should be sought because, even though the tongue may not be sore, some of these causes require prompt treatment.

Q — What would cause soreness and burning of my mouth and tongue?

A — A sore tongue may be caused by eating too much raw pineapple, a stone in a salivary duct, excessive smoking, a canker sore, a rough, jagged tooth or dental plate, a burn or neuralgia. If the sensation is one of burning, additional causes include vitamin deficiency and taking large doses of antibiotic. Have your doctor or dentist find and eliminate the cause.

Q — I frequently bite the inside of my cheek. Is there anything I can do to prevent this?

A — If your teeth are of normal size and configuration, there is nothing you can do to prevent this except to chew your food more cautiously. If it's any comfort to you, every one bites his tongue or his cheek several times in his life.

Q — My throat and tongue are often sore. I have small lumps on the back of my tongue. Is this normal?

A — These are your taste buds. You'll have to look elsewhere for the cause of the soreness.

Miniskirts: A Tax Dodge

If you have ever wondered why merrie but conservative olde England, of all places, gave birth to the miniskirt, of all things, a theory being advanced is that it is because of a peculiarity in that country's tax laws.

Skirts shorter than 24 inches from waistline to hemline are officially classified as children's clothing and are exempt from a 12½ per cent purchase tax. Your average adult miniskirt over there doesn't even come close to that length.

It is doubtful, of course, that taxes were in the minds of designers when they first came out with miniskirts, but it does seem like a possible explanation of why the fad has lasted this long.

The real fashion crunch will come when the government gets around to changing the law, as it has promised to do.

Glass Honeycomb?

Glass tubes being stacked by an employee at the new Westinghouse fluorescent lamp factory in Salina, Kan., form a honeycomb pattern. The eight-foot-long tubes move from the glass-making facility to the automated, high-speed manufacturing line where they are coated with phosphors, filled with gas and capped. (UPI)

People In The News

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Singer Helen Grayco, widow of band leader Spike Jones, has married a New York restaurateur in a brief, single-ring ceremony at a Strip hotel.

Justice of the Peace Joseph Pavlikowski said he married Miss Grayco and William Rosen, 52, on Tuesday in a meeting room at Caesar's Palace. Reception guests included Debbie Reynolds and song writer Jimmie Van Heusen.

The bride wore a white lace dress trimmed with ostrich feathers. The hotel said the couple planned a world tour for their honeymoon.

HONOLULU (AP) — Adm. U.S. Grant Sharp has stepped down as commander of U.S. Pacific forces, commenting it was "frustrating not to be able to make full use of our tremendous air power" in the Vietnam war. Sharp was succeeded Wednesday by Adm. John F. McCain Jr. in ceremonies aboard the carrier U.S.S. Hancock at Pearl Harbor. Sharp had been the top military commander in the Pacific for four years.

The ceremonies were attended by Gen. Earl G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff who presented Sharp with the Distinguished Service Medal, and Gen. William C. Westmoreland, Army chief of staff.

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — Walter H. Schrader Jr., has filed suit in U.S. District Court asking that state-supported Winthrop College be compelled to grant academic degrees to men.

Schrader's suit said the college charter providing that it be for "girls only" violates the 14th Amendment of the U.S. Constitution.

Men can enroll and gain credit for courses at the college in Rock Hill, S.C., and Schrader has been working towards a master of arts degree.

Seek Reagan Ouster

A group led by Ed Koupal, right, founder of the Recall Reagan Movement, holds up stacks of what he claims are signed petitions calling for the recall of California's Gov. Ronald Reagan. Koupal turned six cartons of what he claims are 300,000 signatures of voters seeking the ouster of the California governor into the Los Angeles County Registrar-Recorder. He claimed there are about 900,000 other signatures being turned in at 56 of California's 57 counties. (UPI)

Prefers Simplicity

THE MEKONG DELTA, Vietnam (AP) — The young sergeant was covered with mud. His men had been in battle all night and were tired and he was worried.

"You know how it is with the first baby," he said. "The doctor said it was due before now but I haven't heard anything."

Nor was husky, crew cut Edwin Williams likely to hear anything this day.

He was deep in the delta, often hip deep in water and surrounded by scarred paddies and patches of nipa palms. His only contact with the outside world was a pack radio which sometimes cackled with orders from the command helicopter circling the battlefield. It didn't seem likely that the radio would relay any tidings from a hospital in El Paso, Tex.

"It had better be a girl or I'll have to go into bankruptcy," Williams grinned. "I've bet 12 cases of beer on a girl."

The 9th Division infantrymen of C Company, 2nd Battalion, 39th Infantry, naturally were hoping for a boy. Either way, however, they figured on drinking 12 cases of beer.

The 26-year-old sergeant broke out a cigar, carefully kept dry in a little plastic bag that old-campaigners quickly learn to use in the Mekong paddies.

"Today's my birthday, too," Williams said. "I may as well light up."

The radio had just snapped out some welcome news. The men of Charlie Company could stop their sweep and sit down.

"Take off your boots and dry your feet," the radio said impersonally.

Some of the men laughed. The only dry ground was on low dikes criss-crossing the paddies. If by some miracle you managed to dry your feet they would be wet again the first step you took. And even though the guerrilla force in the area had been routed, it still didn't seem too wise to take your boots off.

So the men just slouched down where they were, seeking such dry places as they could find and opening C-ration cans and relaxing and talking easily for the first time in many hours.

They had been tense since the previous afternoon, a distant 18 hours in the past. It had started when a chopper was shot down and a band of guerrillas had opened fire from a thatched farmhouse nearby. Through the afternoon the fight grew.

More 9th Division infantrymen of the 1st Brigade were brought in by helicopter, encircling the battlefield. Jet strikes hit the nipa palm patch where the Viet Cong were holding out. Flares lit the field at night and artillerymen unloaded a 1,500-round barrage.

At dawn the battlefield had to be swept. In the torn palms and muddy shell holes 32 enemy bodies were found, some wearing black uniforms of the Viet Cong and others in the khaki and helmets of North Vietnamese soldiers.

Some of the enemy had gotten away in the darkness. One small group had run right over startled Cpl. Charles Burton of San Francisco, and he was taking a ribbing from his comrades who had opened up on the guerrillas and possibly saved his life.

Williams is a six-year Army veteran who was reared in Somerset, Pa., where his mother lives. His company had taken casualties, a few wounded and a few killed—not many.

But in a good infantry company all losses are deeply felt. In almost nine months Williams had seen many friends lost. Once, as a staff sergeant, he was in command of the whole company, the senior man left on his feet.

They offered him a field commission but he turned it down. "I'm just a country boy," Williams shrugged. "I like being a sergeant. I like my men. Officers eat too high on the hog for my taste."

Actors Too 'Deep'

BOSTON (AP) — Barry Nelson, on tour as the star and director of "The Only Game in Town," said in a recent interview that some actors are "trying to put so much meaning between the lines that they just obscure things for the audience. They think they're being deep when all they're being is confusing."

Better Family Living

by
OPAL O'BRIANT
Pettis County
Extension Home Economist

This is a busy season for homemakers who are preserving food for fall and winter. Food should be nutritious and of top quality. In order to have food of top quality, follow recommended directions. Then, we can justify the time, labor and expense involved in home food preservation.

Check steam pressure and water bath canners to be sure they are in perfect condition. Discard unusable jars. Follow manufacturers instructions for lids and sealing. Be sure you have up to date food preservation directions.

The vegetable you select for canning or freezing should be of high quality. Remember that the shortest time between picking and processing will insure highest quality food. If vegetables have become limp, they will be less tender when frozen or canned. In the case of canned vegetables, there may even be spoilage if the vegetables are too delayed in reaching the can. Most vegetables need to be blanched before freezing to retain that peak of quality. Then they need to be cooled rapidly.

Need Rolling Boil

Fruits and tomatoes should be canned by the hot water bath process. This means placing the filled containers in a large vessel, with a rack on the bottom, with the water level completely above the tops of the jars. The water must be a rolling boil throughout the processing time to drive out the air in the cans and to get the contents hot enough to keep.

Vegetable canning demands a pressure canner. The boiling water bath is not hot enough to safely preserve the vegetables. Non-acid vegetables (this means every vegetable except tomatoes) may become quite toxic if the temperature of every particle within the jar has not been heated to the proper degree. The pressure canner can do that job; the hot water bath cannot.

Pickle products require heat treatment to destroy organisms that cause spoilage, and to inactivate enzymes that may effect flavor, color, and texture. Adequate heating is best achieved by processing the filled jars in a boiling water bath. Heat processing is recommended for all pickle products.

What to do when jelly doesn't jell? Don't throw it out — it can be saved. The problem usually is wrapped around the pectin content of the fruit juice. Pectin content differs in kinds of fruit, varieties of fruit, and in ripeness of fruits. To firm-up the jelly, recocking is the answer. Keep the amount of recocking at one time down to 6 cups or less. Larger amounts are hard to handle. To recock with powdered pectin, measure the jelly to be recocked. Then for each quart, you will need ¼ cup of sugar, ¼ cup water, and 4 teaspoons powdered pectin. Mix just the pectin and water together and bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Then add the runny jelly and the measured ¼ cup sugar. Stir constantly and bring the total mixture to a full rolling boil over high heat. Boil hard ½ minute. Remove from heat. Skim. Pour into hot containers and seal.

Recocking is Needed

To recock with liquid pectin, for each quart of unjelled jelly, you will need ¾ cup sugar, 2 tablespoons lemon juice and 2 tablespoons liquid pectin. Bring the jelly to boiling and quickly add these ingredients. Bring it back to full rolling boil, stirring constantly, and boil 1 minute.

When canning for low salt and low sodium diet, remember that vegetables without salt may be given a lift by the addition of a very small amount of complementary seasoning and it does not affect the processing time. For example beets and carrots may be perked up by the addition of one tablespoon of lemon or orange juice per quart jar. A pinch of spice, fresh herb or dried herb, a tiny bit of pimento, or a teaspoonful of finely chopped celery will do a lot for green vegetables.

Aspirin should not be used as a substitute for heat in canning fruits and vegetables.

Canning Question and Answers

Is it safe to process foods in the oven? No — oven canning is dangerous. Jars may seal during processing and explode wrecking the oven and seriously cutting the processor. Too, the temperature of the food in the jars during oven processing does not get high enough to insure destruction of spoilage bacteria in vegetables without exceedingly long process.

Must glass jars and lids be sterilized by boiling before canning? No — not when boiling water bath or pressure canner method is used. Then the jars as well as the food are sterilized during processing. It is only necessary to be sure that the jars are thoroughly clean and hot to prevent breakage when filling with hot food.

What causes food to change color? Darkening of foods at the top of the jars may be caused by oxidation due to air in the jar or by too little heating or processing to destroy the enzymes. To prevent this darkening, which is often pronounced in light colored fruits (like peaches and pears), add a little ascorbic acid (1-16 teaspoon per quart). Many people like to put slice lemon on the top pear in a jar to prevent this darkening. Over-processing may cause discoloration of foods throughout the container. Pink and blue colors sometimes seen in canned pears, apples and peaches are caused by chemical changes in the coloring matter of fruit. Variety is sometimes a factor in the discoloration. When canned corn turns brown, the discoloring may be due to the variety of corn, its stage of ripeness, overprocessing, or iron from the cooking utensils. A common cause of the fading of highly colored foods is the dissolving of the color into liquid around food.

Why does the underside of metal lids sometimes discolor? Natural compounds in some foods corrode the metal and makes a brown or black carbon on the underside of the lid. This deposit is harmless and does not mean that the food in the jar is unsafe to eat.

Is it safe to can food without salt? Yes — salt is used in canning for flavor only and it is not necessary for safety.

What will keep home canned tomato juice from separating? Some settling of solid particles is to be expected, and juice is easily shaken up to blend at the time of serving. Fully ripe sound tomatoes make good juice, overripe ones tend to separate and should not be canned in any case. Too much or too little heat will cause solid particles to settle.

What causes jars not to seal? Some common sealing failures are:

Not removing particles of food, seeds, etc., from tops of jars; not knifing out air bubbles before sealing jars; screwing band too tight (a band must be tight enough to hold the disc closely against the jar top). If it is too tight, the jar can't vent and pressure within the jar causes the lid to buckle; insufficient heat to seal the lid; failure to exhaust steam pressure canner before closing petcock, letting pressure in canner fluctuate; reusing jars in which commercial food is sold. (These jars are excellent for their intended use — but not for home canning.) Reusing disc lids — use them once.

Cost of Bread
Americans, on the average, eat three and a half slices of bread daily. So, bread rates high as a convenience food.

A 1965 USDA survey reveals that 91 per cent of you purchased white bread; 11 per cent whole wheat; and 23 per cent selected other breads. From these facts, one might assume that there is usually a choice of breads in only a small percentage of American homes.

As the dough rises, so rise the costs of putting bread on the retailer's shelves at the time, in the quantity, and of the variety and quality which you demand. In 1967, the average price for one pound of white bread was about 22 cents, up from 13 cents 20 years ago.

While over half of you are too young to know anything about 13 cent bread, the wheat farmer knows that his share of the bread-dollar is the unleavened part of the current 22 cents.

In the past 20 years, the farm-produced ingredients in one pound of white bread have increased only two-tenths of one penny — from 3.3 cents in 1947 to 3.5 cents in 1967. This pays for the wheat (2.8 cents) and milk, shortening, sugar and or honey used.

The trip from farm gate to retailer's shelves involves a number of handling and processing steps — each with a price tag.

The costs for storing, transporting, handling, and processing all ingredients other than the flour up to the bakery increased ½ cent the last 20 years.

The miller gets today just about what he earned in 1947 for grinding wheat into the quality and type of flours demanded by space-age bakers.

Once the ingredients are unloaded on the bakery's docks, the big increase in costs set in. Here flour, shortening, milk, sugar, yeasts, and other ingredients are received, stored, processed for baking and baked. The bread is then sliced, wrapped, and delivered. In these 20 years, this cost has gone from 6 cents per pound to 12 cents. Wages and salaries make up the largest part of the cost of baking — 6 cents in 1967.

Salaries and commissions of bread route driver-salesman claim about as much of the sales-dollar as do wage payments.

The remaining cost goes to the retailer for moving bread from the bakery through the checkout stands. The retailer's take in 1967 was 4.6 cents per pound of bread, up from 2.2 cents in 1947-1949.

When you're comparing today's bread prices against the price grandmother paid 20 years ago, remember however, that you're buying a different loaf of bread. Today almost 70 per cent of all breads are enriched with minerals and vitamins, and they're presliced and packaged in a plastic film bag to retain freshness.

Brock's Theft Proves To Be Key Run In Cardinal Victory

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

July 1776—the month the United States declared its independence. July 1968—the month the St. Louis Cardinals freed themselves from the rest of the National League.

The Cardinals began the month with a 5-1 victory over Los Angeles and a 6½-game lead over second-place Atlanta. They ended it Wednesday night with a 3-2 triumph over Philadelphia and an almost insurmountable 14½-game bulge over runner-up Cincinnati.

In making the Fourth of July firecracker look like a real fizzle, the Cardinals ripped off 24 victories in 30 games and they didn't care how they did it.

Take Wednesday night's game against Philadelphia.

Lou Brock singled and stole second in the seventh inning.

Julian Javier bunted and pitcher Woody Fryman threw him out, with Brock going to third. But Brock didn't stop there, he kept right on running and beat first baseman Bill White's throw home for what proved to be the winning run.

Atlanta edged the New York Mets 3-2. Cincinnati trounced Pittsburgh 8-2 and then was walloped 10-1 by the Pirates. Chicago topped Houston 6-1 and

Los Angeles tripped San Francisco 6-3 in other National League games.

In the American League, Detroit blanked Washington 4-1, the New York Yankees topped Boston 7-3, Baltimore beat Cleveland 4-2, the Chicago White Sox outlasted Minnesota 12-8 and Oakland took California 4-1 and 4-3 in a two-night twin bill.

Mike Shannon doubled in the first St. Louis run and Brock singled home the other. Clay Dalrymple's sacrifice fly and Richie Allen's single produced the runs for the Phillies, who have lost four straight and 15 of the last 18.

It was all Hank Aaron in Atlanta's victory over New York. The Braves slugger doubled home his club's first two runs and then snapped a 2-2 tie with an RBI single.

Cincinnati scored four runs in the first inning on singles by Pete Rose, Vada Pinson and Tony Perez, Johnny Bench's double and an error en route to its first-game victory.

Pittsburgh came back to take the nightcap with a 16-hit attack and the second triple play in the major leagues in two days.

After Lee May and Perez walked in the fourth inning, Tommy Helms lined to shortstop Gene Alley. Alley threw to second baseman Bill Mazeroski, doubling up May, and Mazeroski threw to first to get Perez. Ron Hansen of Washington made an unassisted triple play Tuesday night against Cleveland.

Roberto Clemente hit a two-run homer and first baseman Donn Clendenon a solo shot and a triple to pace Pittsburgh's attack.

The Cubs, who slammed five home runs Tuesday, continued their heavy hitting by clouting four more against Houston. Ernie Banks hit two and now has 460 in his career. Billy Williams and Jim Hickman smacked the others.

Trailing 3-1 in the eighth, the Dodgers rallied for five runs on two hits and a series of Giant misplays. Two runs scored when Joe Gibbon uncorked a bases-loaded wild pitch and catcher Dick Dietz made a wild throw back to the plate, and Frank Linzy forced home the go-ahead run with a bases-loaded walk to Bob Bailey.

Championship Team Plans Exhibitions

The board of directors of the Sedalia Babe Ruth League met and discussed plans to raise money to send the state champion Babe Ruth team to the regional tournament to be held in Wellington, Kan., next week.

It was decided to stage two exhibition baseball games with the Senior Babe Ruth 16-year-old All Stars. There will be a charge of one dollar for each of these games which will be played Sunday, Aug. 4, at 8 p.m. and Monday Aug. 5 at 8 p.m. The games will be played at the Liberty Park diamond.

This will give Sedalia fans an opportunity to see the Missouri State Champion Babe Ruth Baseball team play and will also help to raise the necessary funds to send the team to the regional tournament. Tickets can be obtained from any of the Babe Ruth officials, any of the members of the team or at the gate at game time.

Also it was decided to solicit contributions and all donations will be greatly appreciated. Anyone not contacted, but desiring to contribute is urged to mail their contribution to George Moyer, treasurer, 1615 West Third, Sedalia.

All Stars Apprehensive

CHICAGO (AP) — The College All-Stars, as Coach Norm Van Brocklin says, probably are "apprehensive" about tackling the Green Bay Packers in the 35th All-Star football game Friday night.

"But if they play football and find out Green Bay is like everybody else, we'll be all right," said Van Brocklin, a hard-bitten product of the pro ranks making his All-Star coaching debut.

Van Brocklin, former coach of the Minnesota Vikings and once a star National Football League quarterback, will send an able crew of 50 collegiate stars of 1967 against the giants of the northland.

Led by a pair of talented quarterbacks, Gary Beban of UCLA and Greg Landry of Massachusetts, the All-Stars may avert a third straight shutout by the Packers.

But the oddsmakers tab the Packers a 19-point favorite to hand the collegians their 24th setback against only 9 victories and 2 ties in the historic series sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.

"I suspect our kids are apprehensive about this game, but I have a feeling they came to play," said Van Brocklin, whose Vikings never were shutout, won twice and dropped two squeakers to the Packers in 12 meetings.

The former Los Angeles Rams and Philadelphia Eagles quarterback said he would not announce any starting lineups for the contest to be played before an estimated 60,000 in Soldier Field.

"They are All Stars and everybody will play," said Van Brocklin, adding he intended to platoon Beban and Landry at quarterback and that both would see a lot of action.

Not only have the All-Stars been blanked—27-0 and 38-0 the past two years by the Packers—but they haven't won this game since 1963 when they tripped the Packers 20-17.

There is no question any All-Star success must come through the air, even though Van Brocklin has a burly running pair in Larry Csonka of Syracuse and Lee White of Weber State, both 240-pounders.

If Beban and Landry can beat the rushes of such packers as Willie Davis, Henry Jordan, Ron Kostelnik and Lionel Aldridge and the sticky Green Bay secondary, they have receivers who can go all the way.

The game will be telecast nationally by ABC at 9:30 EDT. There will be no radio broadcast.

Track Stars

Linda Klover (left) and her sister, Rosemary, exhibit medals they won at the Ozark Empire Track and Field Championship meet held Tuesday at Southwest Missouri State College, Springfield. In girls' 11-12 class, the girls teamed with Sandy Thomas and Patty Knowles to win the 220-yard relay, establishing a new record. Rosemary then placed third in the 60-yard and 100-yard dashes, and second in high jump. Linda took a third place in the high jump.

SHAVING STROKES

by Frank Beard

40---Dealing with Obstructions

Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

When entangled with obstructions, one normally either shortens his swing or his grip (that is, the length of the shaft becomes shorter). These cases necessitate more club to make up the distance cut down by the shorter swing or grip.

In using a shorter swing, a punch-type stroke is employed. With a shorter grip, you swing full. The results, in both cases, should be the same as when not involved with obstructions.

At Indianapolis recently, I was under and slightly in front of a tree. Under normal conditions it would have been a 9-iron shot. However, I used an 8 and took a three-quarter swing. The ball popped out and on to the green.

Someone else might even have used a 7. But the club selection is purely a matter of knowing your game. And that comes with experience. (NEXT: Uphill, Downhill.)

Denny McLain and the Detroit Tigers are showing nothing but their heels to nine American League laggards. But there's still plenty of catch-up left in the also-rans ... when they tangle with each other.

While the front-running Tigers loped past Washington 4-0 Wednesday night for McLain's 21st victory of the season, the Oakland Athletics, Chicago White Sox and New York Yankees were winning games on ninth-inning comebacks.

The A's completed a double-header sweep by overtaking California 4-3 on Ted Kubiak's two-run triple in the ninth after winning the opener 4-1 on a three-run homer by Mike Hershberger in the eighth.

The White Sox spotted Minnesota an 8-1 lead, then fought back behind an 18-hit attack and finally felled the Twins 12-8 with six runs in the ninth. The Yankees pushed over five unearned runs with two out in the ninth for a 7-3 triumph over Boston.

Baltimore trimmed Cleveland 4-2 on Elrod Hendricks two-run homer in another AL game.

Cincinnati and Pittsburgh divided a National League twin bill, the Reds taking the first game 8-2, the Pirates the second 10-1. St. Louis edged Philadelphia 3-2, Atlanta beat New York 3-2, Los Angeles bounced San Francisco 6-3 and Chicago whipped Houston 6-1 in NL single games.

McLain, 21-3, scattered four hits and struck out nine as Detroit maintained its seven-game spread over second-place Baltimore.

Dick McAuliffe and Al Kaline set the offensive pace for the Tigers. McAuliffe cracked a single, two doubles and his 14th homer and scored all the runs. Kaline contributed two doubles, a single and two RBIs.

In the nightcap at Oakland the A's fell behind 3-1 in the seventh when California's Tom Satriano and Jim Fregosi slapped run-scoring singles. John Donaldson's infield hit scored Rick Monday in the bottom of the seventh, but the A's still were one run down with one out in the ninth.

Then Jim Gosger walked and Bert Campaneris singled, chasing reliever Marty Pattin, and Kubiak greeted Angels' ace Jim McGlothlin with a drive off the center field fence, scoring the tying and winning runs.

Hershberger unloaded his second homer of the year following a walk and Sal Bando's single in the eighth inning of the twilight game. The blast broke up a pitching duel between winner Catfish Hunter and Angels rookie Bill Harrelson.

Minnesota left the White Sox on the ropes with a six-run volley in the fourth inning, but they bounced back with four in the sixth and went into the ninth trailing 8-6.

Southpaw Ron Perranoski got the first out, but Tommy Davis, Duane Josephson, Leon Wagner and Ken Berry singled for two runs. After a ground out and intentional walk filled the bases, Tim Lullen laced a three-run double off Al Worthington and scored on Woody Held's single, nailing the Sox' fifth victory in their last six starts.

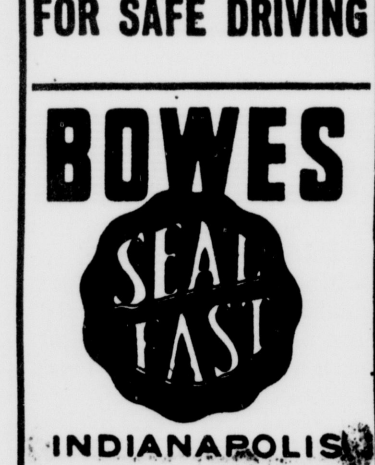

Ken Harrelson drove in two runs with a single and his 25th homer, helping Boston's Gary Bell take a 3-2 lead over the Yankees into the ninth.

But Horace Clarke doubled home two runs after a two-out error by third baseman Joy Foy filled the bases. Bill Robinson punched a run-scoring single and first baseman George Scott booted Joe Pepitone's grounder as two more Yankees crossed the plate.

Hendricks' two-run homer off Sonny Siebert in the sixth inning gave the Orioles a 3-2 edge at Cleveland and they added an insurance run in the ninth on relief pitcher Gene Brabender's bases-loaded sacrifice fly. Brabender rescued winner Tom Phoebus from an eighth inning jam and stopped the Indians in the ninth.

POLLY'S POINTERS
A Television Cart
Is Aid to Handicapped

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—My three young children all like to do jigsaw puzzles but they manage to mix up the pieces from as many as six puzzles. Rather than having to stop several times a day to sort out the pieces—sometimes almost impossible without working the puzzle—I find it is better to mark a different letter of the alphabet on the back of each piece of each puzzle. This enables the children to know which pieces are for which puzzle and also helps them to recognize the letters of the alphabet.

The shelf for chalk and eraser on the youngster's chalk board is so narrow the chalk was forever falling on the floor or being scurried away by the dog so I attached a small decorated box with ribbon to hold the chalk and eraser.—MRS. D. L. W.

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—My husband broke his leg and will be on crutches for quite awhile. He has to wear white shirts most of the time and his shirts are rapidly turning black under the armpits where the crutches rub. I have tried scrubbing and bleaching but they still look filthy. I certainly hope some reader can think of something before I end up buying all new shirts.—PATTY

DEAR POLLY—I have had several strokes and find nothing more useful for my crippled condition than a television push cart. I use it in walking and in doing household chores. I have tied an ordinary grater to the top of it and set on it things that are to be carried from place to place. This keeps them from slipping. I tied a deep fat frying basket to the top to carry things that could be spilled when I am working in the kitchen. Oh! What a wonderful help this is to me. You can set your spillable items in the basket (first lined with aluminum foil) and find you can do things at home even though you are too crippled to go outside the home for activities.—EDNA

DEAR POLLY and Mrs. F. F. Jr.—My mom had a stroke and I took care of her for three years. My first suggestion is that you have a physical therapist call on the victim. They can do wonders right from the start. I kept a small square table next to mom and on it was a bell to ring in case she wanted something, a rubber ball about the size of an apple to use for exercising her hands, a small dish of mints, her comb and brush in a plastic bag, her knitting yarn and needles and a fresh glass of water, milk or fruit juice with a handy hospital bent straw. I found she could do small chores, like peeling potatoes, which is good for the circulation and exercising the fingers.—B. D.

Shooters Gunning For Title

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — The 20-gauge championship was to be decided today in the National Skeet Shooting Association World meet.

Thirty-nine shooters were still gunning for the title Wednesday when activity was concluded after all broke 100 out of 100 targets to qualify for the shoot-off.

The 20-gauge championship was scheduled to follow the beginning of the 3-day 12-gauge competition in the morning.

Highlighting Wednesday's activities was the world record set by the five-member team the Californians. They fired 498x500 to break the record set last year when five sharpshooters from Lackland AFB, Tex., shot 497x500.

The Californians is made up by Gordon MacKenzie, Ken Barnes, Charles Garben, Phil Murray, and Mike Pelkey.

Warriors, Oaks Have to Wait

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Francisco Warriors and the Oakland Oaks will have to wait at least a month to find out which team Rick Barry will play basketball for this year.

Final arguments were heard Wednesday in the suit brought by the Warriors of the National Basketball Association to keep Barry from playing for the Oaks of the American Basketball Association.

Superior Court Judge Walter Carpeneti promised a ruling by the end of August and asked the Warriors to submit a brief on related cases that will back up their arguments. The Oaks will get a chance to reply.

Barry's lawyer, Robert Holtzman, argued that Barry's absence from the Warriors' line-up last year after signing with the Oaks was not responsible for the team's poor attendance and results last year.

Barry sat out last season when a court order restrained him from playing for anyone but the Warriors. The team is now arguing that he must play one more year to fulfill his contract.

Score From Second Base on a Bunt

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — It's not often a runner scores from second base on a bunt, but Lou Brock did it for the St. Louis Cardinals against the Phillies Wednesday night.

It happened in the seventh inning and turned out to be the winning run as the National League leaders beat the Phils 3-2 to close out July with a 24-6 record.

Brock singled in the seventh and stole second. Julian Javier bunted along the third base line and Philadelphia pitcher Woody Fryman picked up the ball and got Javier at first. Meanwhile, Brock never broke stride around third and easily beat the throw home.

LIONS TO PLAY IN HAWAII NEW YORK (AP) — Columbia's basketball team, defending Ivy League champion, will play in the Rainbow Classic in Honolulu next December.

Other teams in the tournament are Purdue, Santa Clara, Arizona, West Virginia, Stanford, Hawaii and a military team to be chosen later.

Mom's Influence Usually Determines

Dear Ann Landers: I have two friends — both widows. I like these women very much — until they get on the subject of their families. I am sick to death listening to them brag about their sons — how smart and successful they are, what great fathers they are to their children. Then they start in on their daughters-in-law. They are dumbbells — no family background, lazy, incompetent, can't do anything right. From there they go on to rave about their grandchildren. They are the most thoughtful, considerate, most popular kids in town. Everyone remarks on their beautiful manners.

Yesterday I stood it as long as I could. Finally I said, "Please tell me how come the children turned out so well when they had such lazy, dumb mothers?" They lit into me and insisted that the children had been trained by their fathers.

I have six wonderful grandchildren. Ann, and although my son is a fine person, I know his wife deserves 85 per cent of the credit. Please print my letter and comment. — FAIR IS FAIR

Dear Fair: When you see thoughtful, considerate, well-mannered children, it's a pretty safe assumption that both parents worked together to bring up those kids properly. The influence of the mother is usually the greatest, since she is the one who spends most of her time directing and disciplining the children in their formative years. I say your thinking is more nearly correct than your friends.

Dear Ann Landers: May I respond to "Old Starchy" — the R.N. who complained about the way patients treat people who staff hospitals? She said, "Illness does not give a patient the right to be abusive or downright nasty to those whose job it is to take care of them."

Fortunately, Old Starchy's viewpoint that "genuinely nice people remain nice in spite of pain and misery" is not shared by the majority of hospital people. Hospital administrative and medical staffs have long recognized that illness can alter one's personality remarkably. May I offer a paragraph from our Personnel Handbook?

"In working with the sick and injured, remember that you are dealing with persons in exceptional circumstances. Such a person is often upset by actions and events which he would not notice under normal circumstances. You will discover that many patients have fears and resentments which may manifest themselves in irritability, uncooperativeness and apprehensiveness. Remember what is routine for you may be grave emergency in the minds of a patient or his family. Courtesy, kindness and, above all, patient understanding are the best weapons you have for overcoming these problems."

Old Starchy seems to have forgotten the creed of the health team. We are neither paragons of detached professionalism nor impersonal tools of technology. We are simply people caring for people. — MRS. N.L. HADLEY, MEMORIAL HOSPITAL, HAYS, KANSAS

Dears Mrs. N.L.: We need more people like you. Thanks for writing.

Foreign Foods Gain In Popularity in US

BY JACK LEFLER
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Americans are becoming more adventurous in their eating. As a result, foods of foreign origin now account for a $150 million annual share of the frozen food market.

Italian, Oriental, Mexican and kosher foods lead in popularity. But dishes native to Hungary, France, Germany, Poland, Sweden and Spain are gaining a place at the table.

Twenty years ago nationality foods for the general public were limited to quaint Italian and fancy French cafes, family owned Chinese restaurants and other such atmospheric eating places.

Anaconda Aluminum Co., a major supplier to the frozen food industry, predicts that the sales volume of frozen foreign foods will be more than doubled in the next 10 years and possibly tripled.

"Today's menu planners want convenience plus originality," says Allan N. Cooper, an executive of Anaconda Aluminum. "They find this in frozen nationality specialties."

Cooper says a survey of his company indicates that Italian foods led the popularity parade of frozen nationality specialties with $90 million in sales last year. Chinese and other Oriental foods were second with sales of $30 million.

Mexican food—considered the fastest growing entry in the field—accounted for $25 million. Sales of kosher foods totaled $5 million.

Pizza has become a standby item; tacos and tamales vie with egg rolls and chow mein; blintzes and bagels are becoming as common as Polynesian skewered ka-bobs or sauerbraten with spatzle.

Sales of foreign specialty foods don't follow traditional ethnic patterns.

In New York, for example, it is generally considered likely that Irish Catholics and other ethnic groups buy more kosher products than do Jewish people. Minneapolis, with its strong Swedish heritage, is one of the better markets for Mexican food.

The foods themselves cross ethnic and nationality lines. On the market are kosher Chinese-style turkey roast and Irish pizza.

The crossing of nationality lines extends to the producers. Jeno Paulucci, son of Italian immigrants in Minnesota, founded the Chun King Corp. in 1946 and built it into the world's leading producer of canned and frozen American-Oriental foods.

The West Still Beckons To City Folks from East

By NEIL BIBLER
Associated Press Writer
HELENA, Mont. (AP) — Eastern city dwellers, disturbed by urban riots, pollution and related metropolitan problems, apparently find the spacious West as alluring economically as did their ancestors.

"Alaska still has a strong appeal as a frontier," says R. Scott Withers, field supervisor for Alaska's Employment Security Division. It's a holdover from the gold rush days."

Withers reports letters from out-of-state jobseekers have increased 20 per cent during the past two years. The increase is also typical of several of the sparsely populated Rocky Mountain states. The area, with an essentially rural economy, generally is attracting an influx of permanent residents along with tourists this summer.

Not all the letters stem from disturbances, although a Nevada official figures 75 per cent of those to their state cite riots as the reason for writing. Other factors include a change in climate, a desire for a simpler life and avoidance of smog and congestion. Some believe a given area is undergoing a boom or, as New Mexico's job service director, Paul Cruz, says, "want more opportunity that they believe is in the West."

Not all the Rocky Mountain states are having an increase in such letters. New Mexico finds things about normal. South Dakota receives few letters from urban centers. Utah and Arizona say there is no increase.

But taken altogether, Alaska and the Rocky Mountain section receive about 300,000 job inquiries a year from out-of-state residents.

The response these jobseekers get varies from a form letter to personal replies, from a glad hand to some discouragement, from descriptions of the climate and opportunities to lists of job scales sometimes notably lower than their equivalents in the East.

Montana, Alaska, Nevada and Idaho report a significant rise in jobseekers. They face a problem, however: They find most of the hopefuls do not have the qualifications needed in these states.

Montana, for example, is receiving 500 letters a week from such workers as factory employees and from professional or specially skilled personnel. It needs cowboys, seasonal laborers and teachers, to name a few.

Alaska, with about 14,000 letters a year its employment service calls "fan mail," cites an oversupply of unskilled and semiskilled labor. "There has been a more or less constant demand for people in the professional and technical categories," says Withers.

"Everybody's heard of the high wages you can make in Alaska," Withers added. "People think they can come up here for a summer, grab one of those jobs, build up a nest egg and pull out. It has always been state policy to discourage this type of approach."

"Let's rekindle the true spirit of Americanism."
